DETAILED ACTION

1. This is in response to RCE filed on July 22, 2004. Claims 37-41 were added. Claims 1-16, 19-34 and 37-41 are now pending in the instant application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1-16 and 19-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hernandez et al. (USPN 5,752,050; hereinafter Hernandez).

As per claims 1, 4, 6, 9, 11, 14, 19, 22, 24, 27, 29, and 32, Hernandez discloses the claimed invention including an information processing apparatus to drive a plurality of driving units according to data to be processed, comprising: a detection unit (e.g. event filter 11; col. 3, lines 18-25) to detect a type of data to be processed; a plurality of power control units (e.g. pm handlers 17; fig. 1), each of which to control a corresponding driving means (15; fig. 1; cols. 3-4) according to the type of data to be processed; wherein the plurality of driving means (e.g. 15) "is not included in a processor" (col. 1, lines 7-20; see also cols. 4-8 for software).

As per claims 2, 5, 7, 10, 12, 15, 20, 23, 25, 28, 30, and 33, Hernandez discloses each of the plurality of power control units (e.g. PM handlers 17) that controls a power source which supplies power to the plurality of driving units [e.g. col. 2, lines 60-67; col. 3, lines 40-65].

As per claims 3, 8, 13, 16, 21, 26, 31 and 34, Hernandez discloses wherein the power control unit supplies power to each of the plurality of driving units that can process the data to be processed, and stopping a supply of power to each of the functional units that cannot process (functional units not currently being used) the data to be processed (e.g. col. 3, lines 65 et seq. bridging col. 4, lines 1-67).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-16 and 19-34 have been considered but are deemed not to be persuasive. Applicants argued that Hernandez only discusses that various system components are powered down based on user or system inactivity, which is different from claim 1 which recites "detecting a type of data to be processed" and controlling "a corresponding one of the plurality of driving means according to the type of data to be processed." Further, in Hernandez, each PM handler 17 controls a device driver 15 based on a received power event. Contrary to Applicants' assertions, Hernandez discloses event manager which track (detect) [col. 3, lines 33-35] events (data to be processed) and distributes events to proper destinations as needed. The events (data to be processed) are processed by the PM handler 17 [col. 3, lines 42-43]. The PM handler 17 processes the event passed on to it from the event manager and determines whether the event received should effect its coupled device's power state [col. 3, lines 55-57]. Therefore, Hernandez clearly met the claimed limitations of "detecting a type of data to be processed" and controlling "corresponding one of the plurality of driving means according to the type of data to be processed." Hence, the arguments are deemed not to be persuasive. Applicants stated that the CPU 101 detects the type of the data of the file and writes the values to the power on/off flag 149 and the suspend/resume flag 150 in the register 148 according to the type of data of the file. Such limitation is not found in the claim. Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claim 37 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
6. Claims 38-41 are allowed.
7. The claims are allowed for the following reasons:
8. As per claims 37-41, the prior art do not teach or make obvious the combination of a storage unit which stores a plurality of types of data, the types of data correlated with at least one of the driving units in a power saving mode table stored by the storage unit; a processor detects the types of data correlated with the driving units; and a plurality of power control units, at least one of which controls the one of the driving units according to the detected one of the types of data read from the power saving mode table.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
